| Compulsory REVISION comments | (1) The focus of the study is on adolescents but background to the study/empirical studies focus more on children.
(2) The concept of adolescence should be clearly defined.
(3) Statistics on existence/prevalence of variables worldwide and especially in Nigeria not adequately addressed. Theoretical framework should be improved upon.
(4) Readers may need to know relationships among marital conflict, divorce, and single parenthood.
(5) Information on single parenthood grossly inadequate
(6) Provision of information on what Crime Behaviour Factor Battery is designed to test with specification of some items.
(7) Provision of information on mean age of the participants, number of males and females and other demographic information such as number of adolescents from divorced, single parents.
(8) Discussion of the findings poorly written.
(9) Sources of information to be provided for the following statements: Worldwide, information on the amount of conflict in families shows that it is not a rare phenomenon. Conflict, of course, represents a rather extreme example of the failure of supportiveness. It is found in every kind of family, and it can reach extreme levels. For example, family fights are one of the most frequent reasons for police calls.
(10) Conclusion and recommendations should be included in the body of the work. |
| Minor REVISION comments | Sentences that are not clear:
79- Marital conflict, mostly against women, is the most pervasive, |
