

After thoroughly going through the papers using your clarification table, I observed some close similarities particularly as it relates to Data collection and Table 2. I have however restructured the paper to emphasize on "willingness to comply with annual ivermectin treatment....,which was the initial objective, without altering the central aim. The restructured paper is hereby attached if you are still interested in its publication. I apologize for any embarrassment that might have caused. It was not intentionally done.