Subject: Final decision for manuscript number 2013_BJMMR_8391

The manuscript entitled 'High Prevalence of Small Intestinal Bacterial Overgrowth in Lactose Intolerance Patients: is it a chicken and egg situation?' was read and reviewed by two (2) experts in the field. Both Reviewers found merit in the study and manuscript publishable after Revision (with marks 7.5 and 8.0). Authors addressed comments, and the manuscript was revised accordingly.

After careful consideration, I feel that the manuscript has merit for publication in British Journal of Medicine and Medical Research.

However, I found many typographical errors and editorial mistakes that should be corrected. I also suggest that all numerical data/results Authors should as far as possible present in tables or /and graphs.
